scenes to life!
In the 1950s,
New York City's Birdland was the center of the world of modern jazz--and a revelation to Bill Crow, a wet-
behind-the-ears twenty-two-year-old from

Page 123/169

Washington
State. Located on Broadway between 52nd and 53rd
streets, the club named for the incomparable
Charlie "Bird"
Parker boasted lifesize photo murals of

modern jazzmen
like Dizzy
Gillespie, Lennie Tristano, and, of course, Bird
himself, looming large against jet black walls.
Exotic live birds perched in cages behind the bar. The

midget master of ceremonies, 3'9" Pee Wee
Marquette,
dressed in a zoot suit and loud tie, smoked huge cigars and screeched mispronounced introductions into the

microphone.
And the jazz-struck young Crow would park in the bleachers till 4 am, blissfully enveloped by the heady music of Bird, Bud
Powell, Max
Roach, and a

host of other jazz giants.
From Birdland to Broadway is an enthralling insider's account of four decades of a life in jazz.
Bill Crow,
journeyman
bass player, superb

storyteller, and author of the successful Jazz Anecdotes, here narrates many moving and delightful tales of the pioneers of modern jazz he played with and was befriended by.

We find Dizzy Gillespie, with whom Crow, because of prior commitments, regretfully declined steady work, dancing at the Royal Roost, Stan Getz sadly teetering on the brink of losing

himself to drugs, and Harry Belafonte (known then as
"the Cinderella Gentleman")
running a lunch counter in New York's Sheridan Square between music dates.
And we also

witness many of the highlights of Crow's career,
such as in 1955
when the Marian McPartland Trio (with Crow on bass) was named "Small Group of the Year" by Metronome;

Crow playing with the Gerry Mulligan Quartet
at venues like Storyville in Boston and Harlem's Apollo Theater (where they appeared with Dinah Washington);
and the tour of

the Soviet Union with Benny Goodman, a journey that might have been a high point of Crow's travels abroad but was marred by Goodman's
legendary mistreatment of

his band. Moving beyond jazz clubs to the Broadway concert pit and a variety of studio gigs in the '60s, Crow encounters actors such as Yul Brynner and pop-rock acts like Simon and Garfunkel. From the great to the near-great, from Billie Holiday to Judy Holliday, Bill Crow's wealth of personal anecdotes takes the reader from Birdland, to the Half Note, to the Playboy Club, to the footlights of Broadway. This revealing book is a marvelous portrait of the jazz world, told by someone who's been there.

Following the

Pulitzer prize-winning collection Stag's Leap, Sharon Olds gives us a stunning book of odes. Opening with the powerful and tender "Ode to the Hymen," Olds addresses and embodies,

in this age-old
poetic form, many aspects of love and gender and sexual politics in a collection that is centered on the body and its structures and pleasures. The

poems extend parts of her narrative as a daughter,
mother, wife,
lover, friend,
and poet of conscience that will be familiar from earlier collections, each episode and

memory burnished by the wisdom and grace and humor of looking back. In such poems as "Ode
to My Sister,"
"Ode of Broken
Loyalty," "Ode
to My Whiteness,"

"Blow Job Ode," and "Ode to the Last Thirty-Eight Trees in New York City Visible
from This Window," Olds
treats us to an intimate examination that, like all her work, is

universal, by turns searing and charming in its honesty.
From the bodily joys and sorrows of childhood to the deaths of those dearest to us, Olds shapes the world in language that is

startlingly fresh, profound in its conclusions, and life-giving for the reader.

With more positive spirits like Janey, the world would be a better place.' - Ben Fogle In 2014 and in her mid-twenties, Janey Lowes had been a vet for just two years when she left her home in and went travelling.

Visiting Sri Lanka, she was horrified to see the state of so many of the island's dogs, in particular the three million strays. Over

5,000 miles from home, Janey decided there and then that she was going to move to the island indefinitely and do everything within her power to help them. She raised £10,000 to get started, setting up a charity called WECare Worldwide, and began work. Frightened, determined and excited all at the same time, she found a local who was willing to work with her and began scouring the streets for dogs in need.

book full of challenges and adventure, Janey introduces us to her world and the tireless work she carries out. As she says, 'I feel as though all these dogs are my dogs and I have a responsibility to them.' In it, we meet many of the colourful characters who have come to offer help, along with innumerable street dogs who have suffered all sorts of trauma and injury, only
